FOREWORD

WL-S In Motion was the spinning of wheels, the whirling and twirling of happiness, and the ecstasy of new and old friendships, as everyone joined to herald the year 1966-67. It was a new life, a new world full of new people with new horizons. It was the Pepsi generation, the go-go kids who couldn't stand still. It was a world of laughter and fun, filling formerly empty halls, yet there were solemn times when everyone paused to reflect over the past, then turned to press to the excitement of new passions. Pages flipping . . . minds pondering . . . bells ringing . . . lockers slamming . . . then swarming crowds of friends changing classes. Ball-games--full of pep. Happiness, sadness, pain, and laughter wound up into this one unique year. All this is WL-S, OUR WL-S IN MOTION.

MOVING OUT

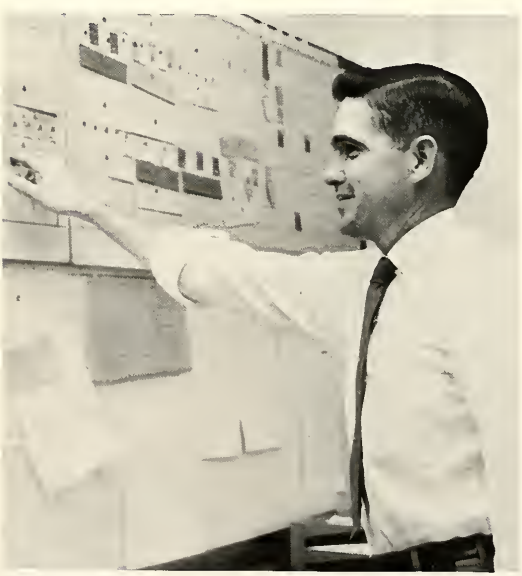
FACULTY

Mr. Dodge, as Executive Head of the School, was a very busy individual. Despite his full schedule, he somehow found time to help any student with a special problem. His innumerable illustrations have aided many people with important decisions.

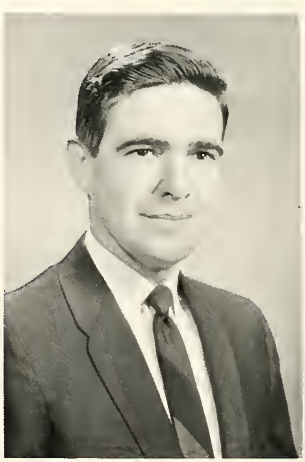
WILLIAM R. DODGE
B.S. Ohio State
M.A. Ohio State

Mr. Dodge jokes with Brad Yocom in his usual friendly manner.

THE ADMINISTRATION



Checking the school activity calendar is one of the many details of school administration to which Mr. FitzRandolph must attend.



JAMES
FITZ RANDOLPH
B.S. Salem College
M.A. West Virginia University

As Principal of the high school, Mr. FitzRandolph was often seen skimming along the halls. His soft voice, pleasant look, and "hush puppy" shoes lend much to his amiable personality.

Mrs. Fullerton, always willing, always helpful.

Mrs. Fullerton became well-known by all students as the friendly guidance counselor. She met with everyone at one time or another to arrange schedules, talk over college plans, or discuss the future. Her bright, cheery smile and intelligent advice was the key reason her office was always hopping with activity.

MRS. JEAN FULLERTON
B.A. Bowling Green
M.A. Wittenburg

GUIDANCE AND LIBRARY

MRS. WANDA MUSSER
B.S. Ohio State

Mrs. Musser made the library an exciting and inviting place through eye-catching bulletin boards and current book displays. She was an indispensable aid to all who needed help in research.

Mrs. Musser keeps the atmosphere friendly and warm in one of the most important places at WL-S, the library.

MR. JAMES McFARLAND
B.S. Union College

MRS. FRANCIS PIATT
B.A. Creighton University
M.A. Creighton University

"I bet you were really playing hooky!" Mr. McFarland chides as he passes back an excuse.

"Read, read, read" . . . Mrs. Piatt drills literature into the whirling minds of her senior CP classes.

ENGLISH

Mrs. Piatt's exuberant actions portrayed many different moods to fire up her English and Latin classes. In her senior English classes she familiarized her students with numerous literary figures. Compositions also dominated the thoughts of the college prep. students and Mrs. Piatt was heard yelling, "Unity, coherence, style!" The regular English pupils will long remember her grammar lessons. Her Latin classes were confronted with the history of Latin and the many conjugations, and combinations of verbs. Mr. McFarland was another newcomer to the faculty. His expert authority in literature made his junior college prep. classes very aware of all its angles. In addition to this he taught speech and was advisor of the student council social committee and the Oratio Club.

Mrs. Arnold's jubilant smile brightens up class activity.

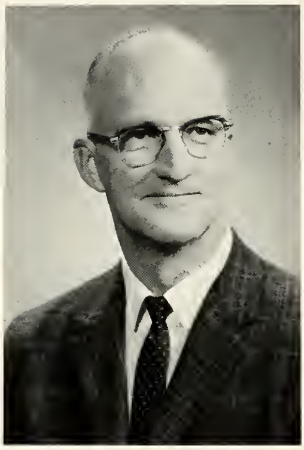
MRS. MARY ARNOLD
B.A. Findlay College

MRS. GERALDINE KEELY
A.B. Ohio Northern
B.S. Ohio Northern

DEPARTMENT

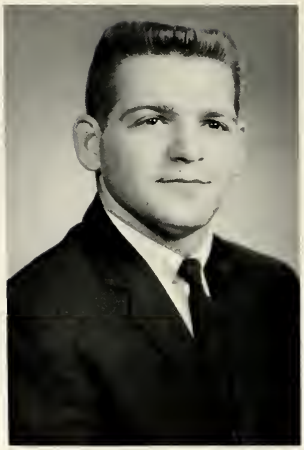
Mrs. Arnold possesses a personality which draws many people to her. Her sophomore English and health students had a distinct advantage because of her worthwhile classes. Her interest in every phase of athletics and the skill she exhibited while participating in sports made her phys. ed. classes lively. As sponsor of the G.A.A., she portrayed these same qualities through the various activities. She also spent many long hours with the innumerable facets of the junior and senior plays which displayed her abilities in this area. In addition to these responsibilities, she advised the cheerleaders throughout the year. Mrs. Keely is a soft-spoken individual with a kind feeling for everyone. Her freshman English classes were filled with useful lessons in grammar and word usage. As French II instructor, she exhibited her same good qualities of teaching. She was also co-sponsor of the French club.

Mrs. Keely and Mr. King contemplate French club plans.



MR. FRED TURNER
B.S. Marion College

MR. JOHN DAY
B.S. Ohio Northern

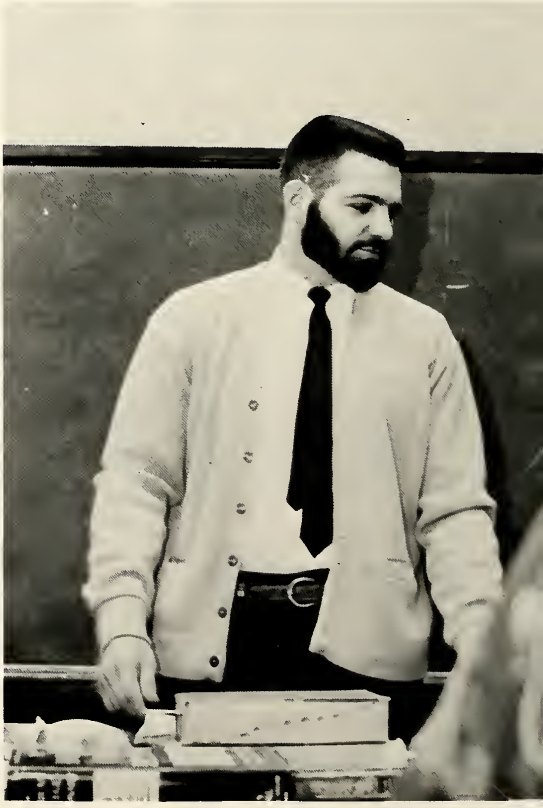


MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

Mr. Turner is a witty person whose friendly laugh livened up his Algebra I, Algebra II, and senior math classes, and the math club. Personal interest in his students and special concern for their understanding of the aspects of modern math has made him one of the school's outstanding teachers. The handsome geometry, general math and phys. ed. teacher, Mr. Day, earned the affection and admiration of all of the students in his stimulating classes. He was also an outstanding assistant football, freshman basketball, and golf coach.

Mr. Turner works diligently at his study hall desk.

Mr. Day listens intensely to an answer provided by some student.



MR. DON LYTLE
B.S. Bowling Green

MR. WILBUR MOLITOR
B.S. Ohio Northern

MR. DONALD SCHERTZER
B.S. Ohio Northern

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

The Tweedler stirs up another magic potion.

Suspense, anticipation!

Pow . . . poof . . .
Kazap . . . zwoosh!

Holy catastrophe!!

Homo sapien analyses Melanoplus femur-rubrum.

Mr. Lytle's unique sense of humor brought many entertaining, as well as educational ideas into his chemistry and physics classes. In addition to teaching, Mr. Lytle was sponsor of the F.T.A. Mr. Molitor is well-versed in every aspect of biology from the Daphnia pulix to the DNA molecule. His active concern for his students made his biology classes appealing to them. Mr. Schertzer's pleasant personality and his deep, authoritative voice demand respect from his general science and earth science classes as well as from his varsity basketball boys. Students and team members alike found in him a quality which made the work they did seem worthwhile.

MRS. NINA HICKMAN
A.B. Cedarville

Mrs. Hickman explains the details of the Civil War.

MR. PHILIP WILKINS
B.S. Union College

Mr. Wilkins glances through a magazine to calm his nerves following fourth period POD class.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Hickman, as American History and Spanish teacher, has been a member of the faculty here for many years. She loves history and proves it in every class she teaches. In addition to her busy job of teaching, she sponsored the Spanish club and the student council assembly committee. Mr. Wilkins carried the remaining load of the history department. His interesting POD and World History classes were full of discussion, and amusement, as well as learning. His fun-loving personality earns him many student friends. As baseball coach, assistant track coach, and sponsor of the Pep Club, he was kept busy all year with extracurricular activities.

Miss Johnson helps Judy King learn the fundamentals of filing.

MRS. EVELYN TURNER
B.S. Marion College

MISS WILMA JOHNSON
B.S. Eastern Kentucky

The sports-minded individual who teaches business math, bookkeeping, business law, and general business is Mr. Chase, a new teacher at WL-S this year. His interesting personality and unique sense of humor made lasting impressions with all students in his classes. Two other important commercial teachers are Mrs. Turner and Miss Johnson. Their classes are a combination of shorthand, economics, business English, and typing in the new course, Vocational Business.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

MR. GREGORY CHASE
B.S. Defiance College

Mrs. Turner willingly explains the meaning of a particular shorthand character to Suzanne Hess.

MR. KENNETH EBY
B.S. Ohio State

Mr. Runyan inspects the interior of a newly constructed self-feeder for cattle, or . . . would you believe, Noah's ark?

MR. MERRILL RUNYAN
B.S. Ohio State

The Vocational Agriculture department is highly respected for its well experienced teachers. Mr. Eby is an easy-going man who guided his freshmen and sophomore boys with a capable hand. Mr. Runyan, a tall, pleasant individual, was always ready to help his junior and senior students with their farm projects.

Mr. Murphy is a man of many talents. His strong determination and striking personality have gained him much respect, especially from those students he instructed in Industrial Arts, Driver's Ed., and Reserve Basketball.

BOY'S VOCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

MR. RONAL MURPHY
B.S. Ohio Northern

Mr. Murphy peers over the shoulder of a concentrating student, Danny Flynn.

Mrs. Smith dashes off an excuse.

MRS. BARBARA SMITH
B.S. Bowling Green

Mrs. Barbara Smith, home economics instructor and F.H.A. advisor was very instrumental in guiding her girls in the various aspects of homemaking, cooking, sewing and childcare. She also contributed her time and efforts in working with the junior prom and student council athletic committees.

HOME ECONOMICS-ART

MR. DEAN KING
B.F.A. Bowling Green

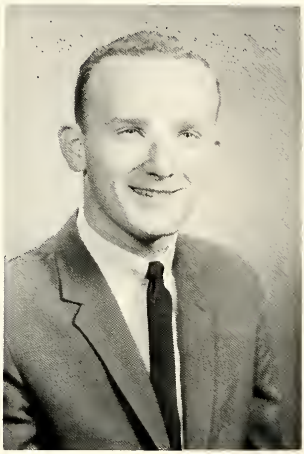
Mr. King aids various students with the technicalities of sculpturing.

Mr. King, though new as a faculty member here, was not at all new to the school system. Being an alumnus of W.L., he fit into the activities of our school easily. His skilled artistic ability helped produce many interesting creations in his art class which were often put in attractive displays. In addition to art, he taught French I, co-sponsored the French Club, and advised the annual staff.

Mr. McAtee cues in the baritones expectantly . . . or is it hopefully?

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

MRS. KAREN JACKSON
B.M.E. Capital



MR. RONALD McATEE
B.M.E. Ohio Wesleyan

Mrs. Jackson sways with the rhythm expressed by her talented chorus.

Mr. McAtee, our brilliant young band director made music come alive for all his students. His frequent yells of "lines straight" and "wake up" kept band members on the ball all year. The sparkling-eyed vocal instructor, Mrs. Jackson, conducted the girls and mixed choruses in an equally successful year. Her enthusiastic pep was the special ingredient which inspired her students. The harmonious blend produced by the cooperation of these teachers enriched the music department.

This year the school board was active as it backed every facet of the school bond issue. The sincere effort put forth by these interested men improved our school as they did their best for our good. Much work behind the scenes is done by the school secretaries. They patiently tackle the details of school business.

Secretaries: Mrs. Crystal Bechtal, Mrs. Jane Wearly.

NON-TEACHING PERSONNEL

Janitors: Norm Thompson, Edgar Hill.

Cooks, left to right: Mrs. Milldred Dachenback, Mrs. Virginia Harrington, Mrs. Frances King, Mrs. Kate Plank.

The friendly janitors did their best to keep the school neat and sanitary. Their numerous tasks encompassed all the details of maintenance. The healthy food served in the cafeteria can be attributed to the hardworking cooks. These women labored long hours endeavoring to please the many eaters.

FOOTBALL

End, Larry Roby, puts forth a valiant effort to obtain possession of the ball.

Left to Right: Ass't. Coach, Mr. Schertzer; Head Coach, Mr. Wilson; Ass't. Coach, Mr. Day; Mr. Wilkins.

The football team endured many long, hard hours of work to prepare for the 1966 football season. Though they failed to bring home many victories, the team accomplished other things. They won the hard battle of good sportsmanship, and profited by the experience of each tumble, punch, and broken bone. Through their willingness to give, and their determination never to give up, they added their part in making this year a success.

"They can't do that to us," gasps the dejected Muz Mortimer.

Freshmen cagers sensed a new thrill this year as they are initiated into high school basketball. The potential of these boys, under the direction of Coach John Day, was exhibited as they marched on to many victories. In regular season play, the Tigers posted a perfect 10-0 record to gain the Logan County Freshmen League Championship. Moving into tournament, the freshmen continued on the winning trail as they obtained the Logan County runner-up trophy.

TRACK

The success of this year's track team was a result of fervent individual effort. The many boys involved in the team showed tremendous endurance while developing personal strength and stability for their particular feats. They displayed keen desire to keep trying despite setbacks, and were rewarded by steps forward in physical and mental maturity.

Bill Owen leaps over the low hurdles as he competes with his worthy opponent.

With a surge of energy, Ron Heath heaves the shot put in a valiant effort.

GOLF

A power drive was behind the boys' golf team this year as it teed off for a successful season. Each member displayed individual effort to attain a victorious 7-1 record. Daily practices in the scorching sun demonstrated the determination of each boy to better his own skills and benefit the team.

A girls' golf team was initiated to the school's extracurricular activities. Although it had no regular matches, the team, consisting of many energetic girls, diligently endeavored to learn the various fundamentals of golf in preparation for next year's season.

Chris Yoder draws back for a forceful swing.

CHEERLEADERS

This year the cheerleaders were the sparkling light which set off the jubilance of school spirit. The freshman cheerleaders cheered their league championship team to many victories. The varsity-reserve cheerleaders yelled enthusiastically at football games. They combined all their efforts into making posters, planning spirited pep rallies, and screaming at games; but, all the sweat and effort was forgotten on the triumphant tournament trail.

The cheerleaders show various emotions, but they are all striving for the same end.

VALLEY RUNNERS GAA

The Girls' Athletic Association, under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Arnold, is made up of energetic sophomore, junior, and senior girls. Monthly meetings attended by these girls are full of exciting, vigorous activities. Highlights of the year were miniature golfing, bowling, ice skating, swimming, roller skating, and horseback riding. The two service projects for the year were collection for UNICEF and entertaining the girls from Ardiel School. The final meeting was a campout at which this year's members hosted those joining next year.

It was a shivery cold night, as several girls met for a midnight snack.

The GAA girls met at the school, then left for the annual campout.

ACTIVITIES

HOMECOMING

The charming queen, Nancy Maxwell, beams as she clutches her loving cup and cradles her beautiful bouquet of mums.

October 14th . . . It was a beautiful, peaceful fall evening, the 1966 WL-S Homecoming game. As the pre-game coronation began, onlookers craned their necks to see the first gleaming convertible carrying the freshman and sophomore lovelies, Karen Woodruff and Linda Foust. Muzzy Mortimer, senior end, met Karen and Chuck Buck, senior guard, met Linda. Next on the scene was the glowing junior, Shari Stanley, who descended on the arm of tackle, Doug Fisher. Radiant senior, Becky Nelsh, followed, escorted by senior fullback, Greg Fortney. Then Mary Jo Michael, crownbearer, descended from her sports car and was guided onto the field by Randy Wilson. Finally, Her Majesty, Queen Nancy entered the spotlight with senior halfback, Bill Roberts. Millard Van Hoose, linebacker, followed, escorting the 1965 queen, Kathy Baker, who then crowned Queen Nancy. Bill Roberts bestowed the traditional kiss and presented the loving cup. The royal company then moved to the beautiful float where they remained throughout the game.

Saturday night Queen Nancy and her royal court returned and reigned over the Homecoming dance, "Angels from Heaven."

Mary Jo Michael, crownbearer, and Randy Wilson, her escort, began the royal ceremony.

The 1965 Homecoming queen, Kathy Baker, crowns poised Nancy Maxwell, 1966 Homecoming queen.

Following the coronation, Queen Nancy receives the royal kiss from senior Bill Roberts.

SENIOR

The senior play, "The Thread That Runs So True," by Jesse Stuart, was presented on November 18. Jesse Stuart was determinded to educate the children of Lonesome Valley, a mountain community. To accomplish this, he had to overcome many obstacles. Finally, with the aid of Naomi Deane Norris, he won the support of most of the mountain folk. At the close of the play, the mountain children defeated the former champions, Landsburg High School, is an exciting scholastic contest. As a result, Jesse won a trophy for the children, and the heart of Naomi Deane for himself.

Lawyer Bleeker reads the will to the eager relatives.

JUNIOR

The "Horrendous Hag" appeared at numerous opportune moments to haunt the various relatives. Here she plants her claws on the throat of jittery Mrs. Dilly.

Backstage actors ham it up for the camera.

Rod Benedict explored his various marriage prospects with vigor. Here his attempts at romance with April Violet were halted by Wilbur's pet rat, Ralph.

CLASS PLAY

On March 31, the junior class presented "Pick a Dilly", a three act combination of mystery, comedy, and romance.

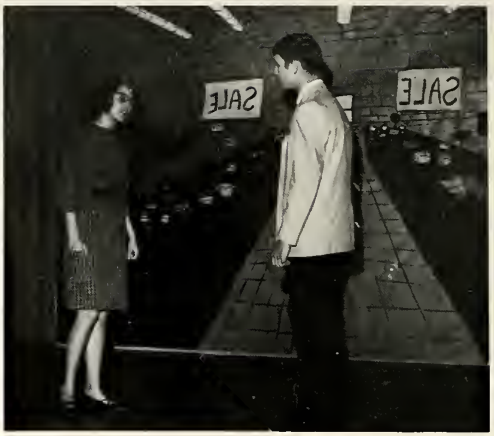
Relatives of the late Jason Strong arrived at his home, formerly a mortuary, to hear the reading of his will. Each of his kin expected to inherit his fortune, and were shocked to hear that Rod Benedict, Jason's nephew from Texas, was to inherit the bulk of the money, provided he marry either April Violet, May Lilly, or June Rose Dilly, the daughters of Frank Dilly, Jason's war buddy. Mrs. Dilly was to inherit the estate, under the same conditions and, following many mysterious events, was about to give it up. June's boyfriend, however, discovered magnesium mica on the land. Meanwhile, "The Horrendous Hag" and "The Mad Mortician" did their best to scare everyone away in order to obtain the mica for themselves, but Rod Benedict and his sidekick, Tex, foiled them and saved the day. The play closed as Mrs. Dilly resolved to keep the estate, and Rod "picked his Dilly."

The play ended happily as Rod Benedict lassoed the heart of May Lily, June Rose and Jack Purcell were reunited, and April Violet found her ideal in Tex Larabee.

"Aha!" . . . The Mad Mortician terrorized the heirs.

"We've got you at last!" The panic was over with the capture of the terrorists.

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. McAtee, provided appropriate music which lent a professional air to the performance.



When Linda found that her boyfriend and manager, Jack Wilson, disagreed with her sales policy, a quarrel ensued.

Following a successful sales day, Linda was distressed to see officials come from Amalgamated Stores to foreclose the mortgage.

Jack Wilson secretly obtained a loan which would save the store and make Linda happy.

The musical, "The Guy from Venus," was presented by the music department and Oratio club on May 12 and 13. This comedy of two acts took place as Linda Stacey acquired ownership of Stacey's department store, following the death of her father. She tried in vain to manage the store with the military precision her father had used. Don Starr, the "Guy from Venus," appeared on the scene and initiated a successful sales policy. But it was too late, for Linda was already faced with foreclosure. However, Jack Wilson, Linda's former boyfriend, who was also Stacey's manager, secretly acquired a loan from a local bank enabling Linda to retain the store. Don's time on earth ran out and he disappeared, causing Linda to forget him completely and realize how much Jack had done for her.

Linda sorrowfully comtemplated the downfall of her store while Don regretfully lost his place in her memory and ended his stay on Earth.

Marge and Harry's antics were highlights in the play.

"The mortgage has been paid and there's joy all over town, with everybody smiling . . . there's got to be a happy ending."

SENIOR PROM

The diligent efforts of juniors like Shari Stanley, under the experienced guidance of Mr. King . . .

. . . achieved the elegant perfection of a Southern Serenade.

A distant whirr of the warm southern wind whispering through drooping willow trees and the starlit sky could almost be heard as we seniors entered the romantic scene of a graceful plantation by way of a foot bridge over "Old Man River." The breeze seemed to be offering a welcome hand over the trippling waters of the stream and beconing us with strains of "Old Kentucky Home." A startling white plantation manor drew our attention with its beaming pillars and brightly lighted veranda. The atmosphere was full of exquisite scents of magnolia blossoms as we threaded our way to the wishing well to drop pennies into the abyss of its welcome waters. A gently swaying swing greeted us, while we moved toward it under the comforting arms of the willow trees. We seemed to be drawn at one into the abundance of southern hospitality shown by our friendly host, the junior class. The entrancing evening of an enticing menu, followed by appropiate music moved us into the distinctive world of "Southern Serenade" which we'll never forget. Yes, juniors, we thank you.

Senior class vice-president, Lin Ropp, presented junior class president, Russ Miller, with the traditional school key.

Mr. Don Lytle entertained prom guests with a thought provoking address.

Mrs. Glenn Dickinson produced dinner music which was representation of the Old South and added more spice to the already heart-warming atmosphere.

HONORS

Mary Sibley places the NHS shield around the neck of a senior initiate, Mildred Lamb.

Brenda Musser explains the significance of Service, one of the four NHS precepts, Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society was the high point in the minds of many juniors and seniors this year. The valuable honor placed on all members of this society is higher than any other given by our school. Chosen by the faculty, members were evaluated on the four points, Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

This year the National Honor Society was very active. The second year members worked diligently to compose a curriculum guide and a student handbook to aid each individual student. They then concentrated on the plans for the impressive initiation, and began the tradition of the presentation, during the tapping ceremony, of a walnut shield in the shape of the emblem. First and second year members then combined efforts to produce the successful county honor banquet.

NHS members spent numerous study halls in Mrs. Fullerton's office cutting, pasting, and assorting flower arrangements for the county honor banquet.

SPORTS HONORS:

The genuine effort put forth by our Tiger team this year, set up standards of sportsmanship and valor of which we can all be proud. The regular season led our team through trying times which aided them in developing into the powerful physical and mental group which they became. Tournament started with a bang as the Tigers skimmed over the seeded East Clinton boys for a victorious five point win. Then, on you Tigers, with spirit and boldness, through exciting adventures, and joyous triumph over Belbrook and seeded Southeastern. Botkins . . . thrills, blithe, contentment . . . yes, this was our district championship. Troy . . . it was great. Nothing could surpass the exalted feeling and bliss when we escorted our cagers to regionals! Good-bye Fredricktown! Yes, we over-powered the Freddies. Then, the regional finals. It was tough competition, with a stable school. It was the last nine seconds--we pulled from behind and tied the score. We never gave up until the buzzer sounded as the ball swished through the waiting basket and our dreams were ended. Arcanum . . . regional champs. WL-S . . . victorious through defeated regional runners-up. Who can say more? We are proud of our team.

At the annual sports banquet, Eldon Miller (upper left) coach of Wittenburg Tigers was the guest speaker. Coach, Don Schertzer, presented several awards to our valiant Tigers. Lester Wells was named Co-Most Valuable Player, the leading scorer, and was recognized as honorable mention in the Darby Balley League. Wilfred Kanagy was designated Best Defensive Player. Jim Thrasher was honored by being presented with a trophy for Honorary Team Captain, Co-Most Valuable Player, Top Rebounder, and Athlete of the Year. The Most Improved Player award was given to Mike Wearly, and Bill Brown received the award for Best Foul Shooter.

BASKETBALL

In addition to the other honors, Mike Wearly and Jim Thrasher were given plaques naming them as members of the Darby Valley League Basketball Team. Jim was also announced as a member of the All Miami Valley Team.

FOOTBALL

Greg Fortney holds the plaque he received as a member of the Darby Valley League football team.

Football coach, Mr. Bob Wilson, (far right), presented football honors at the sports banquet. Greg Fortney received the award for Most Valuable Player, Bill Roberts was named Best Offensive Back, and Norm Hyslip was awarded the Best Defensive Lineman trophy. In addition to these, Doug Fisher and Lowell Yoder received Honorable Mention on the Darby Valley Team.

GOLF

Portraying the excellence of the golf team, Gary Wilkins set a new school record this year, and won the Logan County Open Golf Tournament with a score of 74.

WRESTLING

As wrestling coach, Mr. Wilson also presented trophies to Chuck Buck, Most Improved Wrestler, and Ron Heath, Most Valuable Wrestler. Chuck also placed fourth, and Ron placed third in the District Tournament in their respective classes.

Wilfred Kanagy, 1967 Chapter President, 1968 State Secretary, and winner of the Dekalb Award received the Star Chapter Farmer Award from Joe S. Plank, while Mrs. Kanagy and Mrs. Plank looked on.

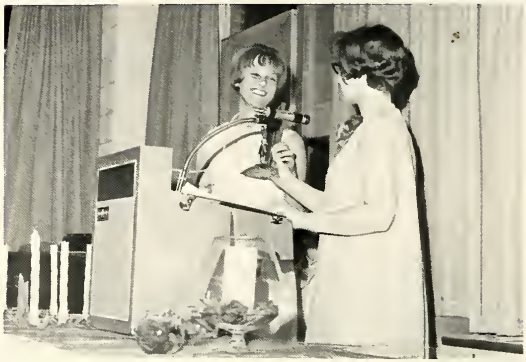
HOME EC HONORS

After a test in December, Brenda Musser was named the WL-S Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

The County American Legion Test winners were Peggie Piatt, Dan Byler, Mike Bates, William Piatt, Brenda Musser, and Jeretta Oelker. Peggie Piatt, as state winner, won a trip to Washington D.C., and the school library received a book for her high rating.

VO-AG HONORS

In the milk judging contest, Bob Plank placed first in the state and the team composed of Lowell Yoder, Bob Plank, and Ed Yoder placed second.



At the annual FHA banquet, Nancy Maxwell was presented the Crisco Trophy for Outstanding Senior.

LEGION HONORS

As a representative of the American Legion, Mr. Piatt presented Mr. FitzRandolph with an award for the school's participation in the Americanism and Government Contests.

MUSIC HONORS

The mixed ensemble composed of Vicki Wilson, Keith Yoder, Bonnie McCullough, Wilfred Kanagy, Sara Yoder, Mark Yoder, Cathy Headings, and Gaylen Blosser received a I rating in class A at the District-State contest, and sang at many community functions.

Jim Thrasher was elected by McAtee's Marauders as outstanding band member.

Comprising the sophomore girls' ensemble which received a I in class A at District-State contest, are: Jill Hostetler, Susie Headings, Joyce Sergent, Becky Wilkins, Kaye Hostetter, Beth Lehman, Nancy Hartzler, Christy Figley, and Janet Troyer.

Soprano soloist, Vicki Wilson received a I rating in class A in the District-State music contest.

INDIVIDUAL HONORS

Mary Ann Sibley was granted National Merit Finalist status, for receiving a high score on the National Merit Qualifying Test, and a substantiating SAT score.

Susie Linville was awarded the DAR Good Citizenship Award for receiving the top rating on the DAR test.

Steve Jones received a $25 award and a monometer for the school for his new design of a solar furnace.

ORGANIZATIONS

FTA members such as Brenda Matthews assisted elementary teachers.

During the Elementary Science Teachers Workshop, Sara Sibley, and other future teachers, took over elementary classes.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Brenda Musser is only one of the many upperclassmen who willingly helped any students with scholastic problems. Here she instructs geometry students, Jeanne Warye, Barb Fisher, and Linda Foust.

Under the supervision of Mr. Lytle, the Future Teachers of America took part in activities preparing for their profession. Students became experienced by assisting and substituting for grade school and high school teachers. They also were of aid in the tutoring program set up this year, which enabled students to obtain help from interested upperclassmen.

During the extended absence of Mrs. Hickman, Ron Heath capably taught Spanish I classes.

ORATIO CLUB

If one were to look for students toting protest signs, living somewhat dangerously, quoting Henry David Thoreau, or would you believe, having a mellow yellow party, he might explore the Oratio club. This club depicts the unprecedented, the novel, the way-out. These qualities were illustrated from the initiation banquet, through profitable visits to professional plays. The year reached its climax with club participation in the spring musical. It was terminated by a grand senior banquet, after which members enjoyed a personal tour of the elegant Piatt castle, including a midnight frolic through the hedges.

Oratio club-sponsored cake raffles, held at each home basketball game, was a major money-making project.

The individualistic character of the club was displayed by unique banquet attire.

STUDENT

The major project of the Student Council this year was the purchase of a football scoreboard. Many students contributed to make this a success. The task began with an intense candy sale drive, followed by several record hops. Later, the Student Council sold ads for football programs. The mum sales preceeding the Homecoming helped tremendously; but, the final reward was the colorful scoreboard, which was erected in October.

The student council did a great job this year by bettering the entire school through its many projects. Record hops, candy sales, parties, and mum sales, enabled them to purchase school flags, a football scoreboard, and other needed additions. They held meetings periodically to discuss activity plans for organizations and classes.

The five committees which act under the the student council were also busy. The social committee took charge of the holiday party and several social events. The assembly committee planned all assemblies and chapels given during the year. The school and surrounding grounds were kept litter-free by the building and grounds committee. Fire drill supervision was a main responsibility of the safety committee. The final committee, the athletic committee, planned intramural activities and handled the elections of the homecoming queen and the cheerleaders.

Brenda, whose wide scope of knowledge was invaluable, did everything from taking pictures to proofreading copy.

Cathy, with the aid of the editor, plunged into the endless job of writing catchy captions and composing interesting copy to tell the story of the year.

Time out for eats! . . . Mr. King's birthday was occasion for a round of cake and moments of relaxation.

Mr. King and Susie talk over yearbook plans. Susie spent many hours planning and coordinating every phase of the book.

Bonnie was constantly pecking away at her typewriter, measuring copy, and perfecting the spacing to make the final draft exceptional.

Happiness for the WeLiSaHi Staff was the day after a deadline was completed. Relief reigned . . . the staff stopped thinking in terms of the yearbook theme, "motion" . . . the Theasaurus was stashed away until the next deadline . . . Whistle boxes and paper cups were stacked up in the corner of our home, "The Shelf". Yes, this was the annual staff in motion. There was work . . . hours and hours of brain-racking worry, burning of midnight oil, and mounds of discarded paper mingled with layout mats, pens, dictionaries, rulers and worn-out typewriters. We, the staff members each put forth every effort, doing our individual tasks, with you, the reader, in mind, to combine into this, our publication of the high spots of the year 1967.

Mary Ann successfully filled her spot as lay-out editor by putting the best pictures in the best places and arranging write-ups for a well balanced, eye-catching book.

Hard at work, the annual staff members carried out their individual duties with vigor and proficiency.

His main job being over, business manager, Les, enjoyed a few moments of leisure scrutinizing his fellow-workers.

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy . . . Les isn't dull!!!

The hectic routine of FFA initiation could cause a greenhand to lose his head.

OF AMERICA

The FFA is a very active organization. Numerous contests in judging, public speaking, parlimentary procedure, and other areas captivated the boys' minds and often made them work overtime. The high ratings achieved by these future farmers reflected the expert advise and careful consideration of Mr. Runyan and Mr. Eby.

President Nancy Maxwell pins momentos on new members during the impressive initiation ceremony.

OF AMERICA

Preparing girls for the future is the major aim of the Future Homemakers of America. During the year, the potential homemakers adopted a small Korean orphan girl, and learned the importance of getting along with others. Through the annual Hobo Day, and the booming cookie sales, the members were able to finance the Mother-Daughter Banquet. These and other projects echoed the state organization's theme, "Sailing Toward the Harbor of Maturity."

Daily practices started late in August for the 1967 Tiger marching band. It was blood, sweat, and tears for director, Mr. McAtee, and the band members, as they perfected their precision drills which they proudly presented at halftime during football games. They also performed at the local Home Show over Labor Day weekend, the Memorial Day service, and the sesquicentennial. They continued their superb job at concert time owing to Mr. McAtee's beneficial idea of three hours per week individual practice. Their ample reward was the stupendous response shown by audiences at concerts and performances.

MIXED AND GIRLS' CHORUSES

The mixed and girls' choruses added harmony to the cultural aspect of the year. They endeavored to offer a program of the best choral music, in performances of artistic excellence, with the listeners interest in mind. The PTO programs in October and February offered an educational and patriotic combination of music. The Christmas program and Spring Concert portrayed aesthetic and spiritual experiences through the enriching music. In May, the choruses willingly participated in the musical.

THE END OF A GREAT YEAR

Between Lindley Ansel Ropp and William Mac-A-Cheek Piatt II, the senior assembly was a success.

Noah, Jim Thrasher, built an ark and in his frustration at having difficulties with two male hippos, his pregnant elephant, and his skeptical neighbor, he lost patience with the Lord. Eventually it began to rain, so it was "You and me Lord, You and me all the way."

Following months of preparation, the Senior Assembly Committee, Jeanne Peters, Brenda Musser, Lin Ropp, Tyla Curtis, Cathy Headings, and Les Wells, presented the final moments of Senior Assembly 1967 with the "Class Will" and "Memories".

A highspot in the assembly was the can-can, presented by "Carryl and Her Lightfeet Nine" (give or take a few).

Yes, it's WL-S's answer to the Mamas & Papas, the Mommys & Daddys: Mary Ann "Mommy Cass" Sibley, Wilfred "Daddy John" Kanagy, Jeanne "Mommy Michelle" Peters, and Doug "Daddy Denny" Fisher.

Brad and Les entertained the student body with a "silent sport" entitled "Lint."

"We, the class of 1967, have challenged, faced, and conquered various situations, both happy and sad. Each one of us has helped by serving in some vital way. The deeds have ranged from meager detail to invaluable perfection, but the willingness to serve and co-operate has always been present. Our thoughts and memories of WL-S have made a lasting impression in each one of our minds. We have accomplished more than our share of the scholastic, athletic, and social facets of life. We have greeted new classmates, lost old ones, praised our accomplishments, and overcome our failures with the calmness that assures success. We'll always cherish and hold dear to us, the friendships and memories we have made. Our never forgotten will to excel in everything is exemplified in our class motto, 'Not at the Top, but Steadily Climbing.' "

Several seniors took advantage of the cool waters at Ash Cave.

The beautiful scenery in the depths of Old Man's Cave drew the senior class through its winding paths and over sun-sprayed stone bridges.

GRADUATION

Graduation . . . it's unbelievable! All these years together were finally ended on that night, May 29th. Good times . . . sad ones, both had formulated ideas in our minds, and feelings in our hearts . . . feelings of distress, heartbreak, love, and joy, and every emotion possible. Feelings which had molded us into the beings we had become. But now it was over. A new leaf had been turned in our lives. We were ready to start with new ambitions, higher goals, and fantastic dreams.

It was a wonderful night, the crowd was sympathetic, our parents were proud. We faced them all, with one goal, one mission: to graduate. When we had our tassels tossed and our diplomas clutched in our hands, we suddenly felt lost. A few parting tears were shed, there were congratulations, gifts, cards, handshakes . . . then it was over.

Following graduation, Mrs. Powell and Vicki examine the long-awaited diploma.

The Junior Honor Guard, consisting of Ron Heath, Allen Ropp, Keith Zirkle, Russ Miller, Jane King, Shirley Tullis, Susan Dalrymple, and Susan Yoder, who were the top four boys and the top four girls in the junior class, led the senior class members through the graduation procession.

Wilfred Kanagy, class president and orator, presented a well-delivered oration, followed by the class address by Dr. Samuel L. Meyer, President of Ohio Northern University.

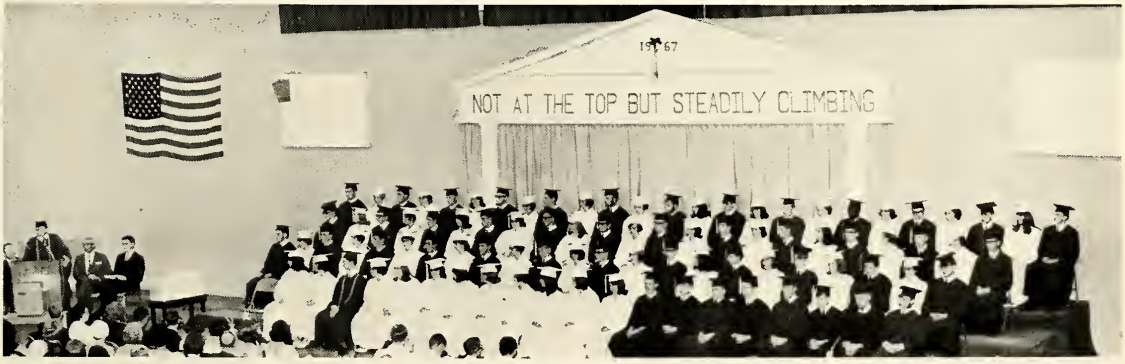
At Commencement, senior members of the chorus presented two special numbers, "Anyone Can Move a Mountain" and "Impossible Dream."

Kathy Matthews favored the audience with an excellent presentation, "Grieg Piano Concerto."

Mr. FitzRandolph presented Co-Valedictorian trophies to Cathy Headings and Kathy Matthews, with point averages of 3.969. Other seniors mentioned as having 3.5 averages and above were: Harlan King, Susie Linville, Mary Ann Sibley, Bonnie McCullough, Emily Overholt, Brenda Musser, Patty King, Jeanne Peters, and Tyla Curtis.

Harlan King accepts the Salutatorian trophy.

The class of 1967 listens intently, as class orator, Wilfred Kanagy delivers "The Creative Drive."



"The great end of life is not knowledge but action."

--Thomas Henry Huxley
